Leave Microsoft alone and go catch the frigging nuts of the world.....If you would have pursued bin laden as hard as you did gates the WTC would still be here....In case you forgot this is America if you make something that NO one else makes ,better than anybody else could ,and sell it for a fair price.....you become very very rich and a target of all the sad sacks who are mad because they did not think of it first...IT would be a real sob if Microsoft moved to asia and all that cheap labor and exported to USA... You guys are lucky Bill Gates is a true American...Most companys would have moved...every country in world would give them every break in world to get them there.
